PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

It appears that summer has finally arrived in Incline Village with the snow rapidly melting, daffodils blooming, and beautiful warmer weather. Hopefully this summer we will enjoy endless blue skies and be able to enjoy all of the outdoor activities Lake Tahoe has to offer.

On May 10th, 15 club members attended the welcoming reception for our new Washoe County Commissioner for District 4 - Clara Andriola. Clara was appointed to this position by Governor Lombardo after the previous Commissioner Vaughn Hartung was appointed as Chairman of the Nevada Transit Authority. The reception was organized by all six of the Washoe county Republican Women's Clubs and was held at the Governor's Mansion in the early evening. Governor Lombardo introduced Clara and after her acceptance speech and VIP introductions, we all enjoyed delicious appetizers presented on a beautiful charcuterie table prepared by the club members. This event was accompanied by wine tasting, courtesy of the Sunset Winery of Reno.

Our summer schedule is full of events. This month will be our Scholarship Award Luncheon on June 14th at the Chateau with the winners presenting their essays to our members. Our Incline Village resident Judge Alan Tiras is the guest speaker. July begins with the Local Heroes July 4th Celebration commencing on Saturday July 1st with the traditional activities through Tuesday July 4th. Our club will participate in the parade

July 2nd with our float and members carrying our banner. The float decorating will be coordinated by Shirley Appel at the home of Kathi Congestri on July 1st ending with a potluck dinner. Next our member Janet Pahl is hosting a social evening July 23rd in her garden catered by John Hurzel which includes dinner and wine tasting with a sommelier. Our July luncheon meeting is July 14 at the Chateau with our new State Senator and IVCB Club member Lisa Krasner summarizing the 2023 Legislative session. We welcome Congressman Mark Amodei as our luncheon speaker in August.

Fall will not be far away and we are already planning for our annual fundraiser, Silent Auction and Fashion Show in September.

I look forward to seeing the return of all our seasonal members at these events!

COMMUNITY AFFAIRS

There seems to be a lot to write about this month so here goes nothing. As we move into a new season, road construction seems to worsen. We all know about the work being done on several parts of Highway 28. And no matter what part of 28 you are traveling you will run into delays, so take it easy and don't stress out. Another area to try to avoid will be Mt. Rose Highway (431) from Country Club to the bottom connecting with Highway 28 at the Roundabout. Beginning Sunday June 4th and continuing for 24 hours a day for at least a week, they are going to be resurfacing the road. This means that you will not be able to access 431 to get to Reno. The best way to get around this issue is to take Lower Tyner to Second Creek, and then to 28 to Country Club, and up to 431.

As you might have seen, there are signs that say "Take It Slow Tahoe." These signs are free and can be picked up at Raley's if there are any left. It's a good way to remind drivers of the 25 mph speed limit on all streets except Highway 28 which is 35 mph. It will also remind tourists coming into town to slow down.

I'm not sure if everyone is aware of the new recreation facility charge that will be on our property tax bill for 2023-24. The Recreation Fee for residents with beach access will be $455. The new punch cards will renew as of June 1 at $91 instead of $155. The new daily adult beach access fee is $16. This means that the Facility fee for the year will be $325 less than last year's fee.

The Chateau Grill is now open for the season. Reminder that when you eat at the Grill you get a 10 percent discount if you have your photo

Recreation Pass (formally known as Photo Pass Card). This only applies to the pass holder.

The Sheriff's Sub Station will once again be in operation in a couple of weeks. They have temporarily been in the same building as the Justice Court next to the library.

On August 15th, there will be an evacuation drill. – More about this as the date gets closer.

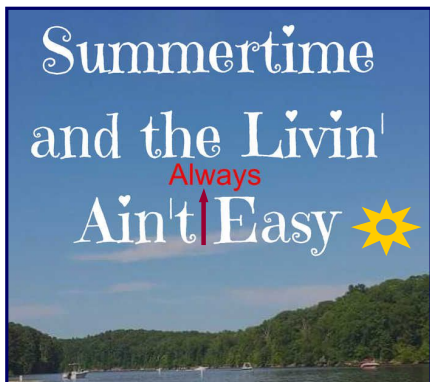

Beginning June 3rd, the Incline Library will be open on Saturday's from 10:00 am to 4:00 pm. Because I attend the Community Forum on the first and third Friday mornings at the library, I stay informed about the goings-on in town. The information comes right from the "horses mouth." These meetings are held on ZOOM or in person and are a great way of staying informed. If you have questions or want the latest meeting summary you can send an email to: ivbcommunityforum@gmail.com

The other meeting that I attend and find both fun and informative is Conversation Café. This group meets on Thursday mornings at the Aspen Grove meeting room from 10:00 am to 11:30 am. Come join me! You learn a lot about the goings-on around us.

That's all for this month. Hope you all have a great summer and with all the activities going on I hope to see you at some of them.

Just a reminder that we will be participating in the July 4th activities, and I will try to give you more information as we get closer to that time.

BOOK REVIEW

By Susan Calfa, IVCBRW Treasurer

TITLE: Carnegie's Maid - A novel

AUTHOR: Marie Benedict

As I was reading this book I was reminded of the importance of women's role in history as well as today. Women have historically worked hard to improve their situation, and when we see what others are doing today to destroy our progress it is frustrating. Let this book serve as a reminder of why we fight for our conservative values.

While this is a fictional character, the history in this book is an indication of the times. It takes place in the 1860's with most of the setting in Pittsburgh, PA and New York. You may recognize the name Carnegie. This story is loosely based on the Carnegie Family.

Clara Kelley was a farmer's daughter in Ireland. Her parents had difficulty maintaining the farm tenancy, so they sent Clara to America to find work and hopefully send wages home. She was put onto a ship headed to America, in the "steerage" section. She would endure the long ride to America in awful conditions, not knowing what awaited her upon her arrival. Finally, the hatch was opened and she was ushered out. She kept to herself as she heard the stories of what could happen to women arriving in America with no purpose or place to go. She hoped to find work.

She heard someone calling her name, and walked in the direction of the voice. "Are you Clara Kelley?" "Yes," she answered. The next thing she knew she was put in a carriage, and headed she knew not where or why. Listening to the chatter of the other girls she realized they were all to be lady's maids.

BOOK REVIEW

She eventually found that the “other” Clara Kelley had taken ill and died enroute to Pennsylvania. What could she do but survive and do what she must to help her family? She assumed the role of a lady’s maid to Mrs. Carnegie. This book will take you through her life in America and what she had to do to survive.

Clara is a strong woman and is an example of how important it is to fight for your survival.

I hope you enjoy this book as I have and hopefully start conversations with your friends and family as to the importance of women in society, then and now, and recognize that our progress as women should not be erased. ✨

The COVID Cult Proved How Desperate Westerners Are for Meaning

By J. B. Shurk

What is the meaning of life? What is our purpose? Why are we here? Daunting questions whose answers have been sought since mankind's birth. Although we mortals will continue to debate the nature of our existence for as long as we exist, I know this: we are not here to scream at each other for not wearing three layers of masks or to force each other to submit to experimental medical injections just because some very powerful people say we must.

We are not here to lock people up in jail because they have the temerity to worship God together. We are not here to board up small businesses because family owners desperate to remain financially afloat choose to operate in defiance of politicians exercising unjust, arbitrary, and completely capricious powers that they do not legally possess. We are not here to shun those who refuse forced injections of foreign substances, to lock our doors when they are near, to disinvite them from family gatherings, or to vilify them as “unclean” and “unworthy” of life. We are not here to silence those who have different opinions by censoring their words and prejudiciously labeling their arguments as “misinformation.” This is not the purpose of our existence.

Yet it is entirely too clear that for a large number of Westerners, this kind of COVID authoritarianism has been tantalizingly appealing. After governments declared a public health crisis nearly three years ago, far too many people were willing to turn life upside-down. Schools closed their doors to students. Churches closed their doors to the faithful. Shoppers fought for toilet paper and cans of soup. Politicians and bureaucrats suspended constitutional rights in the name of “emergency.” Without actually witnessing people dropping dead in the street or suffering through any medical symptoms, Westerners turned on each other quickly, and the worst impulses in humanity came springing to life.

Chaos during perceived crisis is nothing new. When humans are confronted with danger, only 10 to 20 percent are capable of remaining calm and behaving rationally. The rest have a tendency either to be somewhat paralyzed with fear or to react in such a way as to become a danger to themselves and others. Politicians, whose entire profession is predicated on the cynical manipulation of human populations, know all too well how to rile people up and exploit their natural weaknesses for maximum advantage.

What was different with COVID, however, was how quickly it transformed mundane human behaviors. Out of nowhere, someone suggested that individuals remain six feet apart, and without any scientific rationale to back the premise, the new “rule” took over society. Separation marks were painted on store floors; municipal administrators policed outside lines with yardsticks; people became hysterical if they perceived the slightest penetration of their six-foot radial space.

The same thing happened with personal masking. First, health professionals declared ordinary cloth masks useless; then general masking was recommended; then citizens were encouraged to double- and triple-mask with no end in sight. It did not matter that no medical studies existed to demonstrate any benefits from universal masking. It did not matter that most people were reusing dirty, pathogenic-infested masks for months on end. It did not matter that mask use should have been a personal bodily choice, just as it has always been a personal choice of the mask-obsessed to venture forth into society. All of a sudden, multiple-masked individuals went flipping nuts if they encountered another human not respecting the severity of the arbitrary masking rules — even if that person was jogging far from other humans or sitting in a vehicle completely alone.

Of course, the enduring mantra during this unnatural social experiment has been that we must follow the science wherever it takes us, even if that “science” takes us in completely contradictory directions from one week to the next. New COVID rules were promulgated with great frequency, and those most committed to “saving” the world from its destruction dedicated themselves to these rules like one does with a solemn personal calling. The loudest rule-enforcers among us embraced COVID authoritarianism with an intense, quasi-religious zealotry.

If anyone needed a wakeup call as to how morally confused and spiritually lost Westerners have become, three years of COVID-1984 insanity have encapsulated our problems clearly. For decades, a post-modern, anti-Christian, anti-Western malignant cancer has spread throughout society, eating away at life and joy and fomenting putrid, destructive obsessions with meaningless “multiculturalism,” self-hating anti-nationalism, synthetic globalism, and a Big Government devotion ideologically akin to communism's pathological ethos. Citizens have been forced to abandon their culture, way of life, religious identity, and family allegiances while enduring government conditioning meant to deprive them of their individuality and program them to submit to the “greater good” — regardless of what politicians define that “good” to be.

This era of institutionalized Marxist-socialism has left Westerners a shell of their former selves — spiritually and morally weakened, personally confused, despondently searching for meaning, and desperately seeking salvation in all the wrong places. For so many lost and troubled souls in the West, COVID-1984 has provided a missing purpose to otherwise hollow lives, and unscrupulous politicians have been only too happy to welcome old communist congregants and newly converted disciples to Big Government's irreligious cause. COVID mania has reflected a stark truth that Westerners today crave some sort of tangible meaning in their lives during a period of history in which political leaders have constructed an increasingly meaningless world.

Still, these COVID trials have revealed something else. During perhaps the most intense, unethical, and cruelly psychological pressure campaign ever inflicted by rights-denying governments (and their herd-mentality, just-following-orders, COVID-compliant, inane rule-enforcing, thuggish citizen majorities), a stubborn minority refused to obey. There were those who questioned the “science” and said, “This doesn't make sense.” There were those who looked at the easily discoverable small lethality rates and asked, “Why are we closing everything down for this?” There were those who watched government health bureaucrats and medical doctors rush through the global rollout of experimental treatments largely devoid of supporting scientific data, respect for safety protocols, routine study of control groups, or basic ethical considerations and said, “You will not inject me with something against my will, especially when you have given the pharmaceutical companies pushing the injections complete legal immunity in their pursuit of profits.” Even in the face of abusive government mandates, social stigmatization, and gross disrespect for human rights, a firm few said, “No!”

French general Christian Blanchon published a letter last month [September] praising those courageous enough to resist the global COVID pressure campaign as “superheroes” who “embody the best of humanity.” “They did what others could not do; they were the tree that withstood the hurricane of insults, discrimination, and social exclusion.” Commending them as true warriors, the general concludes that “these are the soldiers that any army of light wishes to have in its ranks.”

The general is correct. It is also true that those who have demonstrated courage will inspire others to act courageously in the future. More people today see clearly the Machiavellian manipulations of Western governments these last few years, and more people who ran with the herd in 2020 will now push back against its movements in the future. More people understand that COVID compliance does not lead to spiritual salvation. More people comprehend that governments do evil things and that following political orders serves no higher calling.

Pursuing virtue and truth does provide meaning, and both are often found on the same path to an Almighty God. As for the mortal world, we are not here to blindly or meekly comply. We do find great purpose, though, when we choose to fight for what's right. ✦

Heather MacDonald to Speak in Reno September 14

The Hayek Group will be hosting Heather MacDonald as the guest speaker at their monthly dinner, which is typically held at the Arrowcreek Club.

MacDonald is the Thomas W. Smith Fellow at the Manhattan Institute and a contributing editor of the City Journal. She has authored several books including The Diversity Delusion, The War on Cops: How the New Attack on Law and Order Makes Everyone Less Safe, and the just-released When Race Trumps Merit: How the Pursuit of Equity Sacrifices Excellence, Destroys Beauty, and Threatens Lives.

Here's the Amazon.com description of When Race Trumps Merit:

"Does your workplace have too few black people in top jobs? It's racist. Does the advanced math and science high school in your city have too many Asians? It's racist. Does your local museum employ too many white women? It's racist, too.

"After the Black Lives Matter protests of 2020, prestigious American institutions, from the medical profession to the fine arts, pleaded guilty to "systemic racism." How else explain why blacks are overrepresented in prisons and underrepresented in C-suites and faculty lounges, their leaders asked? The official answer for those disparities is "disparate impact," a once obscure legal theory that is now transforming our world. Any traditional standard of behavior or achievement that impedes exact racial proportionality in any enterprise is now presumed racist. Medical school admissions tests, expectations of scientific accomplishment in the award of research grants, the enforcement of the criminal law—all are under assault, because they have a “disparate impact” on underrepresented minorities.

“When Race Trumps Merit provides an alternative explanation for those racial disparities. It is large academic skills gaps that cause the lack of proportional representation in our most meritocratic organizations and large differences in criminal offending that account for the racially disproportionate prison population.

“The need for such a corrective argument could not be more urgent. Federal science agencies now treat researchers’ skin color as a scientific qualification. Museums and orchestras choose which art and music to promote based on race. Police officers avoid making arrests and prosecutors decline to bring charges to avoid disparate impact on minority criminals. When Race Trumps Merit breaks powerful taboos. But it is driven by a sense of alarm, supported by detailed case studies of how disparate-impact thinking is jeopardizing scientific progress, destroying public order, and poisoning the appreciation of art and culture. As long as alleged racism remains the only allowable explanation for racial differences, we will continue tearing down excellence and putting lives, as well as civilizational achievement, at risk.”

About The Hayek Group

Our mission is “Promoting Freedom and Prosperity.” Freedom is valuable and requires personal responsibility. We must be reminded of these truths if we are to maintain freedom and its benefits.

The Hayek Group provides ongoing education to Northern Nevadans that emphasizes the importance of freedom of thought, personal responsibility, and financial literacy. We accomplish through monthly dinner meetings that feature a guest speaker. Our primary philanthropic initiative is to make the Dave Ramsay “Foundations in Personal Finance” curriculum available to all Northern Nevada High Schools. For more information, to join, or make a reservation for dinner, go to <https://www.thehayekgroup.org>. Its President is UNR Professor Mark Pingle.

About Friedrich Hayek

The Hayek Group adopts the name of the late Austrian economist Friederich Hayek because we embrace his central premise: Freedom produces prosperity. One way The Hayek Group pursues this mission is through monthly dinner meetings which inform and prompt discussion of economic, political, and social issues, such as the dinner featuring Heather Mac Donald. Annual membership is $100, and you do not need to be a member to attend the monthly dinners. The second means through which The Hayek Group pursues its mission is by facilitating youth financial literacy, funded by membership fees and donations. It is well understood that many people are less free and less prosperous because they never learned how to manage money and credit when they were young. The Hayek Group is partnering with the Ramsey Group and with Northern Nevada schools to place the Dave Ramsey Foundations of Personal Finance curriculum into Northern Nevada schools. Since 2017, The Hayek Group has raised hundreds of thousands of dollars to augment the financial literacy of youth.

And a note about dinner reservations – Heather MacDonald is going to be popular. Club policy will be to allocate tickets to Heather’s talk to Hayek members first, since the Club at Arrowcreek can only accommodate 225 people. Another good reason to get a membership in The Hayek Group!
